charitable organizations from all over the world.

By special permission, Pulaaki, a student at the Academy of Art, Tuesday morning took a mask for the memorial which the academy intends to erect in Rome to Mr. Morgan's memory. Permission was also given to Pulaaki, the famous sculptor, to take a death mask.

From a friend of Mr. Morgan, who was admitted to the death chamber, it was learned last night that the financier looks remarkably natural in death. To use the friend's phrase, "He seems to be just sleeping after an exceptionally fatiguing day."

Ambassador O'Brien says there never will be another Morgan, as future conditions may not combine again to produce his like.

"Mr. Morgan will be remembered as the greatest practical financier our country has produced," said Mr. O'Brien. "His value cannot be estimated, whether we consider the vast undertakings made possible through him, or his character for absolute and unflinching integrity. The United States during the last few years made colossal strides in material and convertible wealth, and it was due to Morgan's character and rare judgment that so many valuable enterprises were set afoot and carried forward to prosperity."

"The growing generation may well accept him as its model in that his unalterable purpose was to uphold and never to break down or destroy." Inquiries among Rome art dealers elicited the fact that Mr. Morgan's death was bound to have a depressing effect on the art market, and that a shrinkage in values was certain. According to these antiquarians the steady rise in prices, up to the point where old masters or great vases of fairly well-known authors came to cost a good-sized fortune was chiefly due to Mr. Morgan's activity as a purchaser.

Will Effect Art World. Signor Tolentino, who for years enjoyed Mr. Morgan's confidence, and who helped him to get together his magnificent collection of paintings and illuminated books, said to-night that these, if not all kinds of art objects, would depreciate in value all over the world.

"This depreciation will be felt above all," he said, "in the painting market, as Mr. Morgan was one of the few who would pay any price, once he was satisfied the painting was genuine."

Another dealer said that the fabulous sums the financier paid for paintings robbed many small masters of the opportunity of buying valuable art works at a reasonable price. These paintings have for many years been kept in the market only in hope that Mr. Morgan would buy them.

Mr. Morgan's death is still the chief topic of conversation among financial and banking circles, where the unanimous opinion prevails that he stood alone in the realm of finance. A well-known American banker, who is at present here, but who requested that his name be withheld, said:

"Mr. Morgan's death may have little or no immediate effect, the question of what may happen is still in the air. Fighting amongst themselves is another thing. Mr. Morgan's dominating influence and powerful personality kept these interests quiet, not so much because they desired peace, but because they feared to fight in the open under such circumstances."

It is recalled here to-night that Joseph Henry Fitzherry, the intimate friend of Mr. Morgan, who acted as personal art expert for him for many years, died a fortnight ago here. At the time it was said his death was due to a broken heart caused by the shipment of the Morgan art treasures back to America.

In connection with this, it is said that Fitzherry, who was married over seventy, was engaged to marry Miss Amory Moore, of New York, but that the engagement was broken off after a few weeks.

Information Refused. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

New York, April 1.—J. P. Morgan, Jr., now head of the great house of Morgan, received a long cablegram today from his brother-in-law, Herbert L. Satterlee, giving a detailed description of the scenes which attended the death in Rome yesterday of his father. The cablegram was in code, and several hours were required to translate it. The day before Mr. Morgan had received a lengthy cablegram from the Italian physician who was among the scientists who strove desperately to save the financier's life. The physician's communication dealt exclusively with the causes of death, explaining in detail what had been done in vain to check the ravages of the malady.

Although repeated applications were made to-day for full copies of abstracts of one or both of these cablegrams, neither the members of the Morgan household nor any of the banking partners of the late financier would consent to reveal any of the contents of either. All Over America, the News of the Marvellous Dandruff Cures of Parisian Sage Has Spread.

A few years ago there was introduced into America a cure for dandruff, falling hair and all scalp diseases. This hair renewer did not attract much attention for some months until a progressive business man, hearing of several almost magical cures, decided to tell the American people of its mighty power to destroy the deadly dandruff germ.

To-day, without any sensational or untruthful advertising, Parisian Sage is used extensively in almost every town in America. Why has it produced this great demand? Simply this: Parisian Sage does just what we are telling the readers of this paper it will do.

We claim, and we back our claim with our money back guarantee, that Parisian Sage is the most invigorating and rejuvenating hair tonic. It cures dandruff, stops falling hair and itching scalp; it makes the hair grow strong and vigorous, yet soft and lustrous. It is the only hair dressing that reaches the root bulb of the hair and destroys the dandruff germ.

And to the women who are reading this simple statement of fact, we want to say that Parisian Sage works wonders with women's hair. It will turn dull, harsh and faded hair into beautiful, lustrous hair in a few days, and is the most pleasant and satisfying hair dressing any woman ever used.

Parisian Sage is sold for 50 cents a large bottle by Tragle Drug Co. and at drug and toilet goods counters everywhere, or it can be obtained direct from the makers, Groux & Co., Buffalo, N. Y., all charges prepaid. (Advertisement.)

trustees. He is referred to as at all times one of the museum's "most active and munificent benefactors" for many years hardly a meeting of the trustees taking place at which "some rich and valued gift from him to the museum" was not announced.

"His accession to the presidency (in 1904) marked the beginning of a new era in its growth and prosperity," resolutions say. "By his generous bequest, he has enriched the museum with his constant liberality."

In line with a recently announced intention, the corporate stock budget committee of the City Board of Estimate to-day unanimously decided to set aside $750,000 for the proposed south double wing of the museum intended to house the famous Morgan collection of art objects, valued at $50,000,000. Quantities of art treasures which Mr. Morgan caused to be sent here from Europe not long ago have been stored away in the basement of the building awaiting a suitable place for their display.

HER CASE WILL BE INVESTIGATED

United States Takes Action Toward Justice for American Suffragette.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Washington, April 1.—The United States government will make an official investigation of the charge that Zeile Emerson, the American suffragette, failed to receive a fair trial in the English courts and is being inhumanely treated by the officials of the London prison, in which she is incarcerated. President Wilson held a long conference with Secretary Bryan to-day, during which the charges were discussed. After the conference Mr. Bryan returned immediately to the State Department and caused a full report of the facts connected with the case.

The message was directed to Irwin B. Laughlin, the American charge d'affaires, and the following information was requested: "Was there a denial of justice at the trial which resulted in Miss Emerson being sent to prison?" "Is the treatment being meted out to the prisoner humane?" "The action of the President is largely due to the appeals made by Senators William Alden Smith and Charles E. Townsend of Michigan, and the communication from Beatrice Stanton, which was received through Theodore Roosevelt."

RECOGNITION EXPECTED

Wilson and Cabinet Discuss Attitude Toward China. Washington, April 1.—China and the Philippine question came prominently before the Cabinet to-day. The President and his advisers discussed the advisability of recognizing the Chinese republic at an early date, and there is every likelihood that the United States will be the first of the powers to act.

The President to-day received many distinguished visitors at the White House to-day. Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston, was received in the Green Room and chatted for a few minutes with the President. The Siamese minister presented Mr. Westengard, adviser to the Siamese government. The international joint commission, Canadian and American members, paid their respects. In the party were Thomas C. Cagrain, Henry A. Powell and Charles A. Smith, of Canada, and James Tawney, Frank S. Stroeter and George Turner, the American members.

MISS MARION WISE TO WED

Washington, April 1.—Miss Marion Wise, niece of Senator and Mrs. Newlands, the girl with the "Mona Lisa smile," according to an announcement to-day, will become the bride of Charles Carroll Glover, heir to millions, and at one time reputed to be engaged to Miss Ethel Roosevelt. The ceremony will take place in the late spring, and plans have been made to have it an out-of-doors affair under the beautiful oak trees of Woodley Park, the Newlands country home.

Miss Wise was one of the originators of the paper chase in Washington. It was while engaged in this exciting pastime that the romance between Miss Wise and Mr. Glover budded.

DEFENDANT WANTS ALL PARTICULARS

Seeks "Itemized Statement" of Value of Mrs. Bustanoby's Affections.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) New York, April 1.—Are the love and affections of Ruth Boyd Bustanoby, the beautiful wife of Jacques Bustanoby, restaurateur, worth $250,000?

This is the question that Thomas L. Reynolds, wealthy real estate operator and captain in the Sixty-ninth Regiment, put to Bustanoby to-day in a demand for a bill of particulars to a suit that he filed in the Supreme Court. He requests Bustanoby to give him an "itemized statement" of how he estimates Mrs. Bustanoby's affections to be worth this sum.

Bustanoby has sued Reynolds for alleged alienation of Mrs. Bustanoby's affection, for which he demands $250,000 damages. He declares that the real estate man met the young wife in secret, persuaded her to leave her home, go with Reynolds to Canada and Europe, and to abandon her husband for all time.

Reynolds has filed a complete denial of Bustanoby's charges. In his first public answer he says he is "in complete ignorance" of the facts alleged in the complaint. He wants Bustanoby to tell him the "exact date, year and hour" and the particular place and places, designating the street and the number of room in which the defendant is alleged to have offered his enticements.

Reynolds avers that he knows nothing about the reputed trip to Canada and Europe with Mrs. Bustanoby. He wants her husband to tell him, in a bill of particulars, "the day and the month of the year when the defendant is alleged to have gone on such trips, how long the trips lasted, the route and places visited, the steamship lines and railroad lines which were traveled upon."

Mrs. Bustanoby is the stepdaughter of Frank B. Ray, after her husband's desertion of her husband she went to Brussels, where she is now said to be living in a castle.

UNDERWOOD SATISFIED

Democratic House Leader Does Not Aspire to Senate. Washington, April 1.—A senatorial toga does not appeal to Oscar W. Underwood at this time. He denied to-day that he had considered entering the fight in Alabama against Senator Johnston. Although the election is two years off, the campaign is being waged by the press.

"I think the closest position as far as the ways and means in the House more important than a senatorship," said Underwood to-day. "I have no thought of seeking a senatorship at this time. Later it may be that I would like to go to the Senate, but not now."

Time Extended by Contestants. Railroad Hearing Will Not Be Concluded Until April 20.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) New York, April 1.—The railroad firemen and railroads involved in their wage controversy agreed to-day to extend the time of the arbitration hearings to April 25. Under the original agreement, the hearings were to have ended to-day. At to-day's session it became evident that the increased cost of living will be an important factor in the final argument of the firemen for the higher schedule of wages demanded. Several witnesses were questioned on this point, all of whom agreed that their living expenses were higher than when the present schedule of pay was fixed.

Close L. Gold, the second witness to be called by the firemen in rebuttal, stated that during the three years he has been a fireman on the Michigan division of the Lake Shore and Michigan Southern Railroad, the amount of coal handled by a fireman had increased. His hours averaged, he said, fifteen on duty and twenty to twenty-one for rest. He made from $80 to $105 a month, and sometimes as high as $114.

Other firemen testified that the roads have not increased their wages in proportion to their greatly increased labor and added responsibilities.

DUSKY SHARPERS ROB OLD WOMAN

Make Clean Getaway With $215 by Working Ancient Flimflam Swindle in Post-Office.

"Look out for the following described negroes: "No. 1. Tall and slender, dark brown suit of clothes, derby hat; ginger-cake color, small mustache, good teeth, slightly stoop-shouldered; about twenty-five years old.

"No. 2. Very dark skin, small black specks on face, rough skin, sharp mouth, thin lips, dark suit of clothes; stably.

"Wanted for grand larceny." This order was issued yesterday afternoon by Chief of Police Werner to all detectives and uniformed officers. The two men sought are wanted on the charge of having swindled Emma Chambers, an old colored woman, of 1021 Catherine Street, of $215 by the means of an antiquated confidence game.

Two men answering the description were arrested by Captain of Detectives McMahon when they were found loitering in Seventeenth Street. They were unable to give a good account of themselves and were taken to police headquarters. The victim was summoned, but she unhesitatingly declared they were not the ones who had flimflamed her.

Was Robbed Monday. Although she was robbed Monday afternoon, the colored woman did not discover her loss until yesterday morning, and she at once made a report of the theft to Captain McMahon.

The money, a small fortune to her, she had obtained Monday on her insurance policy. Before depositing it in a bank she went to the Southern Railway Station to buy a ticket for her niece, who was going to Buckleham County. As she approached the ticket office she displayed a large roll of bills, and it is believed the money was seen by the men who afterward stole it.

Upon leaving the station she is said to have been followed by the two negroes. She visited a bank in Main Street, but found it closed, and was consequently unable to make the deposit. She then went to the post-office for the purpose of buying stamps.

Asked to Change $200 Bill. As she left the station she saw one of the swindlers who approached her and requested her to change a $200 bill. He added that the banks were closed and he had tried everywhere to "break" the large note, but had been unsuccessful. She told him she could change it, and produced her large roll. Forgetting she had more than $200, she handed all of her money—$215—to the stranger. He produced what appeared to be a yellowback, started to hand it to her, and then announced that it in an envelope for her. She thought nothing strange, and accepted the envelope, which had been sealed. The two men at once left the post-office and have not since been seen. It is presumed they have also left the city.

The woman did not discover she had been victimized until yesterday morning, and she at once went to Captain McMahon with the pathetic story of having been defrauded of nearly everything she had possessed.

While the trick by which she was robbed is old, similar to the famous "beggar's goods" game, the old woman had never heard of it, and fell an easy victim.

Every effort is being made by the police to catch the dusky flimflammers, but the chances of their arrest are admitted to be slim.

WEALTHY BROKER IS UNDER ARREST

Reporter Charges He Was Assaulted While Seeking Interview.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) New York, April 1.—David Dows, a wealthy broker, living at 121 East Seventeenth Street, this afternoon was held in $100 bail on a charge of assault in the third degree on the complaint of Alvin Johnson, a reporter, who testified that on the evening of March 3 he had called at Mr. Dows's residence to obtain an interview, and had been covered with a blanket and thrown into the back yard, where he was confined for half an hour.

The defendant appeared before Magistrate Murphy, in Harlem Police Court. Mr. Dows's attorney asked for dismissal of the case on the ground that his client had not injured or intended to injure Johnson.

Magistrate Murphy declared that he thought both parties to the case might be better engaged than in pressing or fighting the action, but at the insistence of Johnson's attorney, held the defendant. Bail for $100 was furnished by a surety company, and Dows left the courtroom.
